“ Belcher, its hard to process youre gone. We grew up so fast. I miss the days I could knock on your door and ask you if you wanted to come play. Life was much simpler then. Im grateful for all our days together, from pre school through high school and off into our adult lives. Its a bitter sadness to find you were our Rimbaud after all... the writer, the poet, the shakespearean bard. You had brains and humor to make us all laugh even at our darkest hours. I know where ever your spirit it is now, its at peace and with laughter. I hope you and Tony found each other and are fishing off some serene coastal waters at dawn. Ill never forget the birthday party you spilled a whole plate of pancakes and syrup on yourself and laughed it off. You were always the life of the party. Bless your soul Ill see you in the next life. Love you.

“ Dear Austin, you were such a joy to be with. I enjoyed watching you mature into the sweet caring individual you became. I so wish you were still here with us. It breaks my heart we have lost you. I hope we will meet again on the other side and in the meantime I and my family will miss you terribly. You will reside in our hearts forever. You will be remembered fondly. Rest in peace sweet prince.

“ Austin was a really remarkable person who didn't deserve to suffer like he did in this world. I can't believe this. I will miss our conversations and your light. I will always treasure our friendship and all the kindness you showed me. Rest easy buddy

“ Thanks for being you Austin. From hanging out in World of Warcraft in high school, to TCC campus hangouts, then meeting up with everyone on Monday to have drinks at CJs (luckily we only set the bar on fire twice, Carlos once). I wish things went different, but you were always a beacon of friendship and good times when ever I'd randomly see you at at bar I was at. You could hold a conversation on just about any topic. I still have the last message you sent me. So long that same message, Papi Patrick loves you. I'll miss you my friend.

Austin i love and miss you as the best friend as well as the son I never had! Smartest, happiest, hardest working person I have ever known. You inspired everyone with your smile and laughter. Best climber,sawman,bartender,oyster shucker,and more than all others book knowledge was your thing. I love you and miss you with all of my heart!

“ Austin the best friend and son to me that I could have ever thought of having! You meant the world to me. The smartest , wittiest ,strongest most hard working , loving ,caring ,intelligent beyond anyone I've known! You have touched the lives of thousands all over this place we call home. You picked me up in times of extremes and told me you can get through this. I knew if I left a job that you had it under control. Your smile and laughter lifted all of those around you! You are my angel. I will see you on the fishing grounds my friend or maybe in the library! I love you with all of my heart and soul!
